

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

First Session of the Sixth Parliament.

SIXTH DAY.

TUESDAY, Jan. 27, 1891.

The Speaker took the chair at 2 o'clock.

NEW BILLS.

Dr. MILNE introduced a bill to amend the Sunday Observances Act. Second reading Monday.

Hon. Mr. DAVIE introduced a bill to make certain provisions respecting municipalities; also bills to further amend the Land Registry Act; to amend the Jurors' Act; and to further amend the Supreme Court Act.

VANCOUVER JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Mr. HORN moved, seconded by Mr. COTTON, "that it is expedient to make the City of Vancouver and a portion of the New Westminster District into a new Judicial District, to be known as 'Vancouver Judicial District,' with headquarters at the city of Vancouver. Said new district to be bounded as follows:—Commencing at Point Grey; thence in a south-easterly direction following the coast line to the North Arm of the Fraser River; thence along the north shore of the North Arm to the south-east corner of lot 331, group 1, New Westminster District; thence due north to the north-west corner of lot 69, group 1; thence due east to the north-east corner of lot 8, group 1; thence due south to the southwest corner of lot 5, group 1; thence due east to the northeast corner of lot 113, group 1; thence due south to the southwest corner of lot 170, group 1; thence southeasterly along the southern boundary of lot 170, group 1, to the Coquitlam river; thence across said river along its eastern bank to its junction with the Fraser river; thence northeasterly following the right hand bank of the Fraser river to the mouth of Pitt river; thence following the western bank of Pitt river and lake to the extreme northern point of Pitt lake; thence on a line due north to the northern boundary of New Westminster district; thence westerly along the northern boundary of the said district to the shore of Desolation Sound; thence following the western boundary of the district to the place of commencement."

While the resolution was being read a number of maps showing the district were distributed. The mover explained the advantages of and the necessity for making the proposed judicial district, with all necessary facilities, Vancouver being the only city in the province which was not a judicial district, all the legal business of Vancouver had to be transacted at New Westminster, a circumstance which was productive of great expense, delay and trouble. The Vancouver press, he noted, viewed the proposition with great favor, Vancouver being the largest and most populous city of the Mainland—and growing at that. He complained of the ease with which debtors could get out of the way of their creditors because of the difficulty in securing capias against them. He trusted that the members of the House would see their way to pass the resolution, and, later on, he hoped, the Government would bring in a bill to constitute the judicial district asked for.

Mr. BROWN rose to move an amendment which he said he did with the consent of the mover. His amendment did not in any way interfere with the principle. The effect of his amendment was to exclude from the proposed judicial district the settlements of Port Moody, New Westminster junction and Pitt River, whose inhabitants believed it would be inconvenient for them to be included, there being no existing road which could bring them as close to Vancouver as to New Westminster. He should be glad had it been possible for the new judicial district to be made larger, but it was impossible to contend against natural conditions.

Mr. HORN said he would, with the consent of the seconder of the motion, agree with the amendment.

Hon. Mr. DAVIE would not discuss the respective merits of the resolution and amendment. But he was not so sure that, if the resolution were passed, the object desired would be obtained, as the matter rested entirely with the Dominion Government. The object was to have another Supreme Court judge established in the district of Westminster, with his residence at Vancouver. Before 1879 there were no judicial districts. The Supreme Court bench consisted of three judges, whose number had been increased since 1871, when the bench consisted of the chief justice only. The judges of the County Courts were, at that time, of unprofessional men. On this account there was considerable dissatisfaction and a movement made to place only professional men on the bench. In 1879, the Judicial Act of this Province divided the province into the Victoria district, which comprised about the whole of Vancouver Island, together with the Queen Charlotte Islands. There were by it also constituted the districts of New Westminster, Clinton and Cariboo, the parts of the province not being included in these districts being directed to transact their business at Victoria. At the time of the passing of the Act the three Supreme Court judges resided at Victoria and took periodical circuits. After the passage of the bill in 1879, the Government appointed two additional Supreme Court judges—McCraith and Robertson, the latter, on his death, being succeeded by Justice Walkem. Nominally, Justice Gray was appointed to Westminster, Justice McCraith to Cariboo, and Robertson, subsequently Walkem, to Kamloops. Judge Gray took the position that he accepted the judgeship without limit as to residence. The matter was brought before the Supreme Court, which affirmed that the bill could not limit the residence of judges appointed under the old Act. So the matter continued, until an arrangement was effected by Sir Alexander Campbell who relieved Judge McCraith from living in Cariboo, and he had since resided in New Westminster. Justice Walkem's residence was at Kamloops, but having more to do in Victoria than in his district he was compelled to locate here nearest to his work. The other three judges resided here. The New Westminster district had therefore only one resident judge, and very properly complained. He would not say that the resolution would have the effect desired, as the decision lay with the Dominion government. To show how little provincial legislation was considered binding, there need only be instanced the cases of Judges Gray and McCraith. The former's position was never combatted, and as to Cariboo, the local law was a dead letter. He was afraid that all would simply come down to a matter of arrangement with the Dominion government. He thought that more would be effected by a resolution in favor of a strong report to the Dominion government as to the residence of another judge in the District of New Westminster. It was only a few days ago that the Government received a communication on the subject, saying that correspondence was going on, but it was impossible to say what would be done. He could assure the House that the governments, both of the Dominion and of the Province were not blind to the necessities of the case. There was a great amount of judicial work at Vancouver, New Westminster and the outlying districts, but not as much as on Vancouver Island and in Victoria. It, however, amounted to about 75 per cent. of it. There was, he must say, more necessity for a new judge in New Westminster than for four in Victoria. That, however, was a question for the Dominion to deal with. If it were thought that the passage of the resolution would do any good the Government would not oppose it. The resolution would have no opposition from the Government. Each member of it would vote as he pleased individually. Personally, he agreed fully with the principle of another judge. Hon. Mr. ROBINSON hoped the resolution would pass in its amended form. There was a great necessity for the accommodation asked for. Vancouver was growing very fast, and it was but natural and right that it should ask for accommodations of this kind. He hoped the resolution would pass so as to strengthen the hands of the Government in the matter. A large community like the one in question was entitled to a judge, it being a great grievance that its people should be compelled to send to New Westminster to have their judicial business attended to, and that their defaulting debtors should be allowed such facilities for leaving the country before a process could issue against them. As far as possible, judicial facilities should be extended to that important section of country. He thought the present an opportune time to approach the Dominion Government on the subject, backed as the claim would be by a resolution of the House.

Mr. COTTON said it was not necessary for him to say anything in support of the resolution which, he trusted, would be carried as amended.

Hon. Mr. BEAVEN said that, last session, and previously, this matter had been brought up and he was disappointed that the Attorney-General had not been able to say that he had, since then, laid the matter before the Dominion Government. He favored the adoption of the resolution, suggesting that a notice of motion be given for the production of all papers and correspondence had with the Dominion Government on the subject.

The resolution as amended by Mr. Brown was then adopted.

Hon. Mr. DAVIE's bill to secure compensation for permanent injuries suffered by workmen in certain cases was reported as amended, read a third time and passed.

THE EIGHT-HOURS' QUESTION.

On the resumption of the adjourned debate on Mr. Beaven's motion relative to eight hours a day's labor on Government work.

Hon. Mr. DAVIE remarked that there was a great deal more information to be obtained on this subject, and he therefore favored the proposition of the member for Cassiar to refer the subject to a committee to report. He spoke of the matter being in, as yet, a very unsettled and unsatisfactory condition. There were a number of questions which he should like to put to the leader of the Opposition, were the subject referred to a committee. Among them was, whether or not the leader of the Opposition when in office had reduced the hours of labor of the clerks and increased those of the working men employed by Government by as much as three hours. There was other interesting evidence which the member might probably be able to give.

Hon. Mr. BEAVEN said he could not answer that question from memory. If he had done, as alleged, years ago, that was no reason why he should do so now.

Hon. Mr. DAVIE continued, that the best thing they could do would be for the leader of the Opposition to withdraw his motion, and let there be a fair and full inquiry into the subject. On an important motion like this, there ought not to be a divided vote. He wished to have the subject approached from the point of view of the public interest. He was not hostile to the workingmen, but he would not commit himself to what he knew nothing about.

Mr. HUNTER said he had carefully listened to the speech of the leader of the Opposition, and found that he had failed to fortify himself with facts as he usually did. He contended that it was impossible to cram ten hours' work into eight hours without violating every law of nature. It was not really a question of cramming ten hours' labor into eight hours; but it was to improve the conditions of the workingman generally, which, with an increase of wages, were the only things that would benefit him. As for the leader of the Opposition, from his experience of him, were he obliged to earn his living by manual labor he certainly should give him a very wide berth. He referred to the contention of the member for Nanaimo that every benefit which had been gained by the workingmen had been by legislation. The member for Nanaimo had said that Mr. Broadbent and Mr. Gladstone were giving the eight hours question the most serious consideration, but it was not long since Mr. Gladstone had, in a discussion with Mr. Hyndman, vigorously opposed eight hour legislation. Some time ago, in a Trades Union congress, representing over a million and a-half members, an attempt had been made in England to secure Mr. Broadbent for his opposition to the eight hours system, but that gentleman had been sustained by 460 votes.

THE TERMINUS OF THE

SHUSWAP & OKANAGAN RAILWAY.

Sited in the Heart of the Famous Okanagan Valley.

THE RAILWAY CENTRE OF THE INTERIOR.

The Shuswap & Okanagan Railway is now under construction, and will be completed and in operation to Vernon next summer, 1891.

The Okanagan & Kootenay Railway Co. obtained a charter (with land grants of 20,000 acres per mile) to construct a railway from Vernon to Sproul's Landing, via the Coldstream Valley and Cherry Creek Mines.

A charter will be applied for at the next session of the Local Legislature to construct a Railway from Vernon south to the International Boundary to connect with the American railway system.

This is a great chance to make money, as Vernon, being in the heart of the most extensive agricultural district in the Province, will undoubtedly become a large and flourishing city.

Arrangements have been completed with responsible parties for publishing a good weekly paper at Vernon, to commence business early in the new year. This paper will be circulated by the company in all parts of the world.

A large Hotel will be erected early next spring and plans for same are now being prepared.

PLANS OF TOWN-SITE ARE NOW IN ALL REAL ESTATE OFFICES.

A large number of lots have already been sold and most of these will have buildings erected on them early next year.

Special inducements are offered to builders. See price list. Free sites will be given to parties establishing industries.

Financial assistance will also be given to responsible parties engaging in legitimate enterprises.

ADVANCE IN PRICES.

The Company will advance prices of all central lots early next month. Intending purchasers should not delay selecting lots now in order to obtain the benefit of this advance.

Vernon is situated in a pass commanding and making tributary to it the whole of the famous Okanagan Valley and its tributary valleys, the diggings of Cherry Creek and Shuswap Creek. Keremeos, Okanagan and Monishoo Mountain, the placer diggings of Cherry Creek and Shuswap Creek. It is impossible to get to any of the above places without first going through Vernon.

The opening of the Shuswap & Okanagan Railway next summer will flood this favored country with land and mining prospectors, and will give a great impetus to the farming, fruit growing, grazing and mining industries. Several important industries are projected and will likely be started in Vernon next year.

The best advice we can give intending purchasers is to go and see for yourselves. The C. P. R. to Sicamous, Stago from Sicamous to Vernon, Leave Vancouver on Mondays or Fridays, arrive Vernon Tuesday or Friday evening.

TO THE PURCHASERS OF LOTS AT

OAK BAY BEACH, THE COMING SUMMER RESORT OF VICTORIA.

A LIBERAL PROPOSITION. Investors can secure a lot at a low figure, and a chance to secure one or more of Six Cash Premiums. A LIBERAL PROPOSITION.

HOW WE PROPOSE TO DO IT.

We have arranged to handle the CHOICEST BEACH FRONTAGE adjacent to Victoria, viz: a portion of the Fuller Estate, lying between the Driving Park and Oak Bay beach. This beach is most suitable for bathing, and is nearer to Victoria Centre than any other beach suitable for a summer resort. Good roads now lead to the beach and wide avenues have been laid out through this property, thus making it the most desirable residential property adjacent to the city.

A HOTEL SITE has been reserved and plans prepared for a SPACIOUS SUMMER HOTEL.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY CARS now run within a short distance of this property, and arrangements will be made to extend the line to the Driving Park, which is opposite this property, and will bring it WITHIN TEN MINUTES RIDE FROM THE POST OFFICE.

The property is specially adapted for residential purposes. It has a Southern prospect, is in full view of the many Islands of the Gulf, and the grand mountain scenery on the opposite shore of the Straits, including the lordly Mt. Baker to the North-East. All steamers for Mainland, East Coast and Puget Sound pass in full view, and the surrounding landscape is one vision of loveliness.

Lots are BOUND TO INCREASE in value in any event, but with the improvements contemplated will without doubt have a rapid rise.

A GOOD INVESTMENT, outside of the fact that you have ONE CHANCE IN 25 of securing one of the Cash Premiums offered. The lots are being sold at such a low figure that it is also one of the best things offered investors at the present time.

LOTS WILL SELL QUICKLY, and if you desire one you should call at once and secure it. Terms easy.

For further particulars apply to $3,000.

We have arranged to give a half-dozen Cash Premiums for Competition among purchasers of lots, the drawing to take place when all lots have been disposed of, which will most likely be within 60 days.

Following are the amounts:

1ST PRIZE	$1,000
2ND "	750
3RD "	500
4TH "	350
5TH "	250
6TH "	150

Each lot purchased will entitle the buyer to a ticket, numbered, and the Drawing will be made under the supervision of a Committee of lot holders, to be selected by themselves, so that everything will be fair, square and above board.

MAN'S FAITHFUL FRIEND.

How Henry Severne's Faithful Dog Remained With His Master and Protected the Lifeless Body.

Mr. E. J. Palmer of Chemainus, who acted as foreman of the coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the cause of the death of Henry Severne, is at present in the city. He furnished THE COLONIST last evening with the following account of the Chemainus tragedy, by which Samuel Gray and Henry Severne lost their lives. The two gentlemen left Chemainus at about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, for Thetis Island, some seven miles away; Gray telling his wife that he would be home on Sunday. Friends watched their boat until it was far out on the water, the day being perfectly calm and the water like a mirror. When last seen alive, the two men in the boat were entering the little bay, near Severne's home, about half a mile away. The Indians who reported this, say that it was 3 o'clock when they passed Gray and Severne, the latter rowing.

Gray not returning on Sunday, his book-keeper, John Hewartson, with Wm. Smith and Henry Porter, started for Thetis Island to bring him to Chemainus, as he had to go to Victoria on Monday to be present in a case before the Supreme court. Not finding anyone at Severne's place, Hewartson and Porter decided to go to Mr. Sitwell's on the same island, believing that the two men had gone to call on their neighbor. Smith, in their absence, went to look after their boat, and he took to be a snag, some 300 or 400 feet up from the water. This was about 10.30 at night. After seeing to the boat, he decided to investigate the character of the snag. When about 50 feet away, Severne's dog sprang up and attacked him so vigorously that he ran away. Suspecting that something was wrong, he went to Mr. Sitwell's and got Mr. Williams to accompany him to the spot, with a lantern. They were joined on the way by Hewartson and Porter, who had formerly worked for Severne. The dog knew them, and allowed them to approach the body, which was at once recognized as that of Severne. The watch, found in his pocket, had stopped at 5.24, which was probably the time that the accident occurred. A trail was discovered leading to the water's edge, which had evidently been made by the toes, as the body was dragged homeward by the faithful dog. The coat also bore marks of the dog's teeth, and showed how the animal had tugged and worked to get his master home. The condition of the dog showed that it had been fasting for some time, and, as it was in the boat, the belief is that the faithful brute tried his best to save his master, and, failing in this, guarded the body with its life.

At the inquest, medical testimony showed that Severne had not died without a struggle, and the opinion was given that he had been swimming and had taken a cramp. The theory of how the accident occurred is that the men were changing seats in the boat, when one fell overboard. The other, in attempting to rescue him, also fell over, probably upsetting the boat. On Monday, the steamer Daisy, while searching for Gray's body, found the boat, bottom up. One of the seats was out and the oars also were missing. A hat, which was not Gray's, was also found in the water. The jury, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict of accidental death.

day night, Gray's body had not been found up to last evening. Severne's was buried during the afternoon on Kuper Island.

THE EMMA JUCH COMPANY.

The Emma Juch Grand English Opera company have just finished the most successful engagement in the annals of San Francisco amusements. Night after night the theatre has been packed to its utmost capacity. The enthusiasm of the audience has been as remarkable as the performances which have excited it. It is easy to understand the reason why the public so emphatically endorses the Juch company's operatic productions. It possesses all the requisites for a perfect and artistic representation of every opera in its extensive repertoire, which includes the masterpieces of the most celebrated Italian and French composers, and several of Richard Wagner's grand lyric dramas. Wagner, besides being one of the greatest composers that ever lived, was one of the most exacting. His wonderful genius not only created the sublime music and poetic text of his works, but dominates every detail of their stage representations. The Juch company, by following the minute precepts of Wagner in its production of his works, has been successful in creating a masterpiece of organization. Another powerful factor in those successful Wagnerian productions is the special fitness of most of the principal artists for this particular line of work, gained by a severe schooling and experience in Wagner music. The repertoire selected for their forthcoming season in this city would be hard to improve upon, embracing as it does Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon," with Juch as Mignon; Verdi's "Rigoletto," Bizet's charming "Carmen," and Richard Wagner's grand composition "Lohengrin," with Juch as Elsa. This excellent artist will have splendid support, a grand orchestra and chorus, and the mise-en scene magnificently illustrated, under the direction of William Parry, assure a brilliant and successful season. The sale of season tickets opened yesterday morning, and the handsome sum of one thousand dollars was realized, proving conclusively that Victorians will give their hearty support to deserving attractions. The season ticket sale will be continued to-day at Waitt's, and to-morrow morning the single seat sale will open, and a rush for the choice of seats is sure to ensue.

COMBINE OF ALASKA CANNERS.

They Form an Octopus to Control Fishermen and Wages.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—With a view to control competition for labor between the cannery companies which put up salmon at Karluk, Kodiak Island, and other points in this vicinity, the following concerns have agreed to contribute to the general fund to be used during the coming season for securing fishermen and other laborers: Karluk Packing Company; Royal Packing Company; Aleutian Islands Fishing and Trading Company; Hume's Packing Company; Arctic Packing Company; Alaska Improvement Company, and the Russian-American Company. Fishermen and other employees will be paid monthly wages and a fixed sum for every thousand fish caught. It is contemplated to divide the fish caught among the canneries that are in the compact at such times as they may require. The number of fish to be delivered to each cannery will form the subject for a future arrangement. It is also understood that the concerns will combine against excessive rates demanded by Chinese for their services.

HUNT'S ROAD IS ALL RIGHT.

Northern Pacific Attachments Were Made on Account of Personal Debts.

WALLA WALLA, Jan. 26.—Assistant General Manager Herman, of the Oregon & Washington Territory railway, who is also treasurer of the road, denies that any attachment has been issued against the Oregon & Washington Territory and furthermore, that the Oregon & Washington Territory does not owe the Northern Pacific anything on account of freight collected by them. He says the business relations between the two companies are as they have been for the past two years. The suit instituted for $135,000 is a personal matter of G. W. Hunt's, and will not in any way interfere with the present business relations between the two railroad companies. Herman says the attachments for the notes given by Hunt in liquidation of the freight bills of the Northern Pacific were for material delivered to him during the construction period. He also says that the attachment proceedings will not hold. The report that Hunt is not a citizen of the state is not true. He says the suits were commenced to influence the sale of bonds, which Hunt has nearly consummated.

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION.

The Behring's Sea question is vigorously discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. A great deal of light has been thrown upon it by official documents and by the press. The question is therefore well understood by nearly all who take a part in its discussion. There are some, however, who still persist in misrepresenting the points in dispute and the tone and temper in which the negotiations are carried on. There are for instance some American journalists who still contend that Behring's Sea is a closed sea and that any encroachment on the sovereignty claimed by the United States will be resented by its Government. They assert that Mr. Blaine in the correspondence between him and Lord Salisbury has assumed an aggressive attitude and that he has, so to speak, shaken his fist in the very face of the British Lion.

These same journalists speak of the encouragement and countenance given to the owners of the W. P. Sayward by the Government of Great Britain and Canada as a piece of unheard of audacity, that it is an insulting attempt to place two branches of the "Government of the United States at variance, that the Administration is justly offended at the presumption of the British and intends before very long to teach the English Government a lesson which it will not forget in a hurry. The indignation of these patriotic newspapers is several degrees above the boiling point, and it bubbles up in a way that is intended to strike terror into the hearts of the subjects of Queen Victoria. But all this sound and fury signify nothing. Those who read calmly, observe dispassionately and report truthfully, tell the public that there is nothing in the Behring's Sea negotiations to alarm even the most timid and nervous, and that the part which the British Government has taken in the Sayward lawsuit is the very reverse of insulting to the United States.

The London Times sees nothing in the Behring's Sea correspondence to discompose any one. It says, in a bantering way:

"Thus we see that whatever rousing account of Mr. Blaine's prowess it may be convenient to circulate among American electors, that gentleman's diplomacy is at present at a perfectly innocuous stage. Nothing can be more absolutely mild and reasonable than the discussion of proposals to be submitted to arbitration. It is only to be regretted that there are Americans unwilling to allow Mr. Blaine to enjoy the credit that is due to his moderation, and anxious to exhibit him in the light of a desperate fire-eater."

Harper's Weekly, which takes a reasonable view of all public questions and which discusses them with much moderation as well as great ability, sees nothing in the part with the British Government has taken in the Sayward case to take exception to, much less to be offended at. Commenting on the appeal case, it says:

"The owner of one of the British sealers which have been seized by our vessels of war has petitioned the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of prohibition to annul the judgment of the Alaskan District Court. This is the usual method of seeking redress in such cases. But the petition is accompanied by a very unusual statement from the Attorney-General of Canada, that the action is taken with the knowledge and approval of the Imperial Government of Great Britain. This announcement in no manner affects the appeal of the claimant, but it is extraordinary, because it is equivalent to a statement that the British Government regards with favor a submission to the Supreme Court of the United States of the essential question involved in the pending diplomatic negotiations between the Governments. That question is the jurisdiction of the United States in the Behring's Sea. If the petition of the owner be usual and regular, the fact that the British Government is aware of it and assents to it would not, of course, invalidate the proceedings. Thus, if the court should permit, the whole question of our national authority in the Behring's Sea would be opened upon its merits, and the opinion of our highest judicial tribunal upon the international question at issue.

The expectation that a tempest of indignation would be aroused in the country by the fact that the British Government had agreed to invite the opinion of the Supreme Court upon a long-standing diplomatic dispute would seem to imply a doubt of the correctness of our own view. The suggestion could not be regarded as an impudent attempt to set two brains of our Government at loggerheads, unless it were assumed that there was some essential weakness in the position of the State Department."

We think it will be found that the conclusions arrived at by these two influential journals express the opinion of intelligent men on both sides of the Atlantic. Such, as far as we can see, is the case. Very few now believe that any disturbance of the peaceful relations that exist between Great Britain and the United States is threatened by the negotiations that are going on relative to the Behring's Sea difficulty, and not one American in a thousand agrees with the fire-eaters who declare that Great Britain's approval of the proceedings taken in the Supreme Court of the United States by the owners of the W. P. Sayward is, in the slightest degree, offensive, either to the Government or the people of the United States. On another very important point public opinion in the two countries is in perfect accord, and that is, that the Behring's Sea question is one to be settled by arbitration and not by war.

A DISMAL ACCOUNT.

Those who believe that Canadian farmers are much worse off than those of the United States should read Professor A. N. Currier's article in the January number of the Popular Science Monthly. That article contains a review of the state of the rural districts of New Hampshire. The story he tells is not a cheerful one, and it will appear still less so when it is remembered that what is true of New Hampshire is also true of Vermont and of the farming districts of other New England States. Fifty years ago, New Hampshire was in a flourishing condition. It was the home of an industrious, a contented and a prosperous people. The farmers worked hard and lived in a plain way, but they were independent, and raised their families respectably. Some of the foremost men of the United States were the sons of the small farmers of New Hampshire and other North-eastern States. Such men as Webster, Choate, Chase, Greeley, Cushing, Bryant, Whittier, Beecher, Hopkins, were raised on these small New England farms, where idlers were not tolerated, but where every one had to do his or her share of the work. The farmer's family did all, or nearly all, the work of the farm. Hired labor was not to be had. Many of the sturdy farmers could not, and others would not, pay for help to till the fields.

All this is changed now. Deserted homesteads are found in every district of the State. The land has passed out of the hands of the old families who were all freeholders. Strangers of a different race carelessly till the impoverished soil. Land that was once valuable is now unsaleable. The low price given for farm land is almost incredible, farms with buildings on them being offered for sale at from $2 to $10 an acre, and purchasers are not found at even those prices.

"Many farms," Mr. Currier says, "are without resident cultivators, and in all probability will never again be homesteads. The New Hampshire Commissioner of Agriculture reports 887 such farms, and these are only a small part. I know a district where eight contiguous farms have been thus abandoned, and, taking the farm on which the writer was born as a centre, a circle with a radius of five miles would enclose twenty farms abandoned within the last few years."

This is, indeed, a melancholy account. If any part of Canada were in this sad state, the fact would be published far and wide and the Government would be blamed for the ruin and desolation that had been produced.

But, it is not only in the Northeastern States that the farmers are complaining that farming does not pay. The grievances of the farmers of the Western, Southwestern and Northwestern States are so many and so great that they have combined to get them, if possible, redressed. Mortgages are so common, and it is so difficult to obtain money to pay the interest on them, that the United States Government is asked to lend the farmers money at little more than a nominal rate of interest. In some States a kind of Plan of Campaign is in force, and a man occupies a farm on which there has been a foreclosure at the peril of his life. The farmers have defied the law and, by force, prevent mortgages taking possession of farms whose owners are deeply in their debt, and they have ceased even to try to fulfil the condition of the mortgages they have given.

If what is said about the condition of the men who farm the prairie lands of those States is true, it is no wonder that they are steeped in poverty and are utterly unable to pay their debts. It is said that it has been proved on evidence that the net income of a quarter section farm (one hundred and sixty acres) has fallen to $30 a year, and is still declining, and this, too, in a good year, when there is no loss from accident or bad weather. These United States farmers complain of high taxes.

Let the farmers who are in this unhappy condition have open to them the market of sixty-five millions, of which we have heard so much in the course of the last four or five years. If this great market has failed to enrich the farmers of the New England States and of the prairies of the West, or even to enable them to make a comfortable living, it is likely to be an unqualified benefit to the farmers of Canada?

A GRIEVANCE.

Serious complaint is made by merchants of the way in which freight coming in the Pacific railway steamers is delayed in Vancouver. Discrimination, they say, in this matter is made against this city by the company's officials. For instance, the Abyssinia arrived in Vancouver on Sunday, the 18th. Perishable goods, such as oranges, were sent on to this city by the Islander without delay, but other goods have not been delivered at this date, the 27th, nine days after the arrival of the ship at Vancouver. The shippers complain that merchants in Montreal may get their goods almost, if not quite, as soon as those in Victoria, which is in daily communication with the port at which the Abyssinia was discharged. This is not treating Victoria merchants fairly. Prompt delivery of goods is one of the plainest duties of a ship owner. Needless delay is wholly inexcusable, and should not be allowed by the company. It is said that the company keep the goods at Vancouver, waiting till their own boat, the Mongkut, is ready to take them to Victoria. It is hard to believe that the company would keep Victoria merchants waiting many days for their goods, and cause them to suffer loss for want of them, for the sake of the small saving that would be made by taking their own boat from the service in which she is engaged, to convey them to Victoria. This is indeed a very small way of doing business. If the goods must be brought here in the Mongkut why are not arrangements made to have her in Vancouver as soon as the Pacific steamer arrives, so that Victoria goods should be sent on by her without delay? We are not surprised that the Victoria shippers who are treated in this way feel indignant. It is not reasonable, and it is not fair that they should be compelled to wait such an unreasonable time for goods.

Since the above was written the Mongkut has arrived with the goods brought across the Pacific by the Abyssinia. The delay has been most provoking, and in the opinion of most people, quite unnecessary.

DREADFUL PSORIASIS

Covering Entire Body with White Scales. Suffering Fearful. Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would crack and bleed, it scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two bottles CUTICURA (Resolvent), I could see a change, and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA (Resolvent), one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA Soap, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the Remedies. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

Salvation Army Charge.

Capt. Aikenhead, who has had charge of the Salvation Army here for some time past, leaves in the morning for the east, to which she has been officially called. She will hold a farewell service in the barracks this evening.

Chief Census Officer.

Mr. G. A. Sargison, of this city, has received a telegram from Hon. John Carling, minister of agriculture, advising him of his appointment as chief census officer for British Columbia, and instructing him to report at Ottawa on Wednesday, Feb. 4.

Chief Commissioner Smith.

Owing to the resignation of Chief Commissioner Wrigley of the Hudson's Bay Co., it is generally believed that the responsibilities of the position will fall upon Assistant Commissioner T. B. Smith, of this city. Mr. Smith has, as yet, received no official announcement of his appointment.

He Believes in Fate.

Do you believe in fate Pat? Sure and what would we stand on without good shoes to cover them with and that reminds me that Russell, McDonald & Co's great annual boot sale commences next Monday. 1t

Right Side Up.

To the great joy of those who had friends aboard, the long-missing schooner, Winnipeg, Murchison, master, returned to port, yesterday morning. She left the West Coast seven weeks ago, but had been driven back several times to Friendly Cove, by the strong south-east gales. She finally left Hespriot on Sunday, and, with fair wind and weather, reached Victoria harbor at 3 a. m. yesterday.

Should be Enforced.

Can any one tell how it is that the determination of the city council to carry out, to the letter, the building by-law, is not being acted upon? Contractors continue to occupy more than their third of the streets, and the temporary sidewalks and protecting fences are noticeably absent. The present state of affairs is unjust to the public and to the storekeepers, and the aldermen should see to it that all the provisions of the by-law are enforced.

Steamer Emma and Badger.

Steamer Emma comes off Turpel's ways to-day after having been thoroughly repaired by Mr. Turpel. She has been re-caulked and has had all the holes in her hull repaired. She is now almost as good as new. The cost of the repairs are estimated at about $1,300, more than had been calculated on at first.

Str. Badger, although not much damaged, has undergone considerable repairing. Her repairs will cost about $300 when finished. She will be set afloat on Saturday.

Respect the Chair!

Yesterday afternoon, as is usually the case, the occupants of the gallery in the House made a shuffle to get out of their seats before the motion to adjourn had been put to the House, thereby interrupting the concluding proceedings. Mr. Speaker rose in his chair and severely rebuked those who in this manner showed so little respect for the House. He observed that it was a healthful and hopeful sign to see so many people taking an interest in the work of the House. He trusted, however, that they would keep their seats until the Speaker had left the chair and the proceedings had been regularly brought to an end.

Sale of an Alaskan Cannery.

The Seattle Telegraph reports that the tug Chinook has been transferred with the Bartlett Salmon Packing company's plant, located on Bartlett Bay, Alaska, to Williams & Brown, of San Francisco. The Bartlett company owned the Chinook and used her during the salmon season in connection with their packing business, and when the season was over she returned to tow on the Sound. She was built at Astoria last spring, and is one of the nearest tow boats on the Sound. Capt. J. A. Hatfield has been given the management of her. The consideration for the whole property is said to be $40,000.

Under Detention.

Late on Monday night, the custom's officers on duty at Fowl Bay, placed under detention a 4-ton American sloop owned and commanded by a man named Kelly, which has been in the habit of entering and sailing from there without any formalities required by shipping law. The sloop had two men aboard when detained, and had just come in, in ballast. She is believed by Collector Milne to be in the opium and Chinese business, but it is for violating the Canadian rules regarding entering and clearing that she has been detained. The penalty to be paid by her owner, pending the decision of the authorities at Ottawa, is $200.

$5,000 Salvage Claimed.

When the steam collier, Costa Rica, was lying on the reef which so nearly caused her loss, with a ragged piece of rock pinning her, Mr. John Haggerty was sent for. He succeeded in blasting out the spur, and the steamer was then drawn into the water and towed to Esquimalt, where she was docked. For his services, Mr. Haggerty claimed salvage to the amount of $5,000, and when she left dock, on Saturday, she was arrested by the marshal of the vice-admiralty court, Sheriff McMillan. On Monday, a bond for the amount of the claim was given, and the steamer was released. She sailed, yesterday, for Departure Bay to load coal. The amount of the bond will abide the result of the action at law, which is to be brought at once by Mr. Haggerty.

Capt. Ferry Returns.

Capt. George Ferry, who was summoned to Washington to sign certain documents in the case of the schooner W. P. Sayward against the Government of the United States returned from the American capital on Monday night. He has little new to tell; the press telegrams have conveyed about all the real news that is obtainable in regard to the Behring's Sea question. That the courts will award the damages asked by the Sayward, Dolphin, Ada, Grace and Anna Beck, he considers certain; and he is also sure that the British Government are determined to press the main questions at issue to a speedy conclusion. The American policy is one of delay; the British one of action. Prof. Elliott's report is generally discredited at Washington, and the knowing ones shrug their shoulders and laugh when spoken to about it. No assurance of protection, whatever, has been given to the British schooners, but all will go to Behring's Sea this season as in former years.

Business Men

will find that they receive the most prompt attention and get the best lunch in the city at Steitz's restaurant, Yates street. Good, substantial home dinners a specialty. 1t

Sunday Observance.

Dr. Milne's bill to amend the Sunday Observance Act, has as its object of making that law which now only applies to the mainland, operative on the Island of Vancouver.

Baseball.

It is understood that a meeting will be held, next week, for the purpose of arranging for the formation of a first-class baseball club, to uphold the honor of Victoria during the coming summer.

Postponed.

The opening of the New Westminster Southern railway has been unavoidably postponed for a short time owing to bad weather interfering with blasting. No date for the opening has been fixed.

A Handsome Church.

There have been on exhibition for the past few days, in Messrs. Hibben & Co.'s window, drawings of the contemplated Church of Our Lady, at Vancouver. The drawings show an exceedingly graceful and handsome edifice, a credit to the architect, Mr. T. C. Sorby, of this city.

The Taton Steamship Company.

Captain Webster, manager of the Union Steamship Company, returned to Vancouver on Monday, coming direct from Montreal. He was successful in his business transactions, and his trip was, from every point of view, all that he could desire. Two of the three vessels which are coming for the company are now on the stocks in the ship-yards at Paisley. They are each 230-ton steamers. —News-Advertiser.

A Short Run.

A Chinaman, while passing Mr. Baker's boot and shoe store, last night, was tempted by the looks of a nice pair of boots, which were on a shelf close to the door. Seeing a good opportunity, he immediately took advantage of it, grabbed the boots and ran with them up Government street, and down Yates. Officer Levin was soon on the spot, and the Chinese pawnbrokers were advised to be on the look-out for the thief. That individual was captured by Ah Wing during the evening, and safely lodged in the lock-up.

At St. John's School.

Miss Beeton is certainly deserving of all praise for the energetic manner in which she directed the concert given in St. John's school, last evening, to a satisfactory conclusion. The schoolroom was well filled, and the programme offered included music, both vocal and instrumental by the Misses Langley, Powell, Beeton, Mrs. Janion and Mr. Marvin, all well known and popular amateurs. Miss Beeton's recitations were given in her usual thoroughly finished style, and were well appreciated. Refreshments were served during the evening, which was one of pleasure throughout.

That Turkey.

The plot in "that turkey" case thickens. Both Mr. Smith and the lady in whose yard the bird was found, claim proprietorship. The lady says that she has had his turkey-ship for the past two years, and can prove it; Mr. Smith says he knows his own turkey when he sees it, and that is the bird. Pending the settlement of the question, the fowl is a prisoner at the city police station, although no charge has been entered against him. The police decline to surrender the bird until the question of ownership is finally disposed of, and there is a possibility for an application for its release under the habeas corpus act. There is also a faint possibility of an action against the city for false imprisonment by the turkey.

A New Firm.

In a very conspicuous place on the first page of this paper, the firm of Messrs. D. W. Morrow & Co. make their first announcement to the public, to-day, as real estate brokers. Mr. Morrow requires no introduction to the people of Victoria. He is well and favorably known to the business public, and has had considerable experience in the real estate business. He is already identified with large real estate interests in Victoria, and, with natural push and energy, combined with the assistance of those associated with him, the office is sure to do a large share of the business which is going. The firm will, in starting, put several new subdivisions of Victoria property on the market. The office is on Government street, near Fort.

Missionaries for China.

Messrs. H. W. Frost and F. G. Saunders and Miss Lydia J. Kay, Miss M. Wilson, Miss Handlick, Miss Riggs, Miss Collier, and Miss Bee arrived at Vancouver on Monday en route to China by the S.S. Abyssinia. These ladies and gentlemen are going out to China as missionaries under the auspices of the China Inland Mission, of London, Eng., and the Deaconesses Home in Toronto. They will land at Shanghai from which city they will proceed to the interior. Miss Kay has been out in China before, and is returning after a short leave of absence. Mr. Frost is the secretary and manager of the Mission in Northwest Canada, and is only going on a short trip, and will be back in about six months. On Sunday the missionaries held service on the railway cars on the C.P.R., which was greatly appreciated by the passengers, all of whom listened with the deepest attention to the various speakers. On Monday night they held a special service in the Chinese church, and every seat in the building was occupied. Hymns were sung, and the various missionaries addressed the meeting. At the conclusion of the service, prayer was offered up for their safe journey and future welfare in China. —News-Advertiser.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

to 95. The member for New Westminster had said that members on the other side of the House were governing themselves by questions of expediency, while those on his side were governed by principle. This he emphatically denied. He, however, distinctly believed that eight hours was sufficient for any man to work, but he did not believe his condition could be improved by legislation. Would it be fair to a miner who worked below the ground under unfavorable conditions to force him to work the same number of hours as those who worked above ground? This showed the value of the nostrums of those who desired to legislate in favor of an eight-hour system. It would be unjust to labor to legislate in this way, for the workingman had a perfect right to regulate his own affairs. He should vote in favor of the motion of the member for Cassiar, and hoped that the result would be to secure a valuable amount of information.

Mr. SWORD was in favor of the principle of eight hours, but he did not think it right that the Government should be bound to restrict the hours of labor in public works, since men working on Government roads were not worked harder than, if as hard as, others. He should vote against that part of the proposal, as it was well known that few men on Government works made more than forty-eight hours per week.

MR. ANDERSON had come to the conclusion that, in the interest of the workingman, it was not proper that the resolution should pass. In the mine, or in the factory, eight hours were sufficient, but with outside and farmers' work it was different, and he should vote against the resolution.

HON. J. H. TURNER regarded this as one of the most interesting debates he had ever heard in this House. He agreed with the member for Comox. The members of this House were, however, in favor of reduced hours of labor and of increased remuneration. In Australia, the eight hours system was applied to some descriptions of labor, but not to all. In the United States very great attention had been paid to this matter, so as to get all the information possible. So it was here, it should be ascertained whether the eight hours labor system was likely to benefit or injure the workingman. He read an extract from Bradstreet's to show that the principal effect on labor of the eight hours system would eventually be to throw the loss upon the workingmen themselves. He also cited numerous authorities to show that the time could not be made up which would be lost by the substitution of eight hours for ten hours. If a man worked honestly for ten hours it would be impossible for him to do in eight hours what he was able to do in ten. The present fight on the labor question reminded him of a fight that went on in London, over thirty-five years ago, in which he was interested. Then it was not a question of eight and ten hours, but it was one of fourteen and fifteen. The employees, of whom he was one, worked hard and steadily, and, instead of obtaining legislation, they induced the employers to join them, and obtained what they asked for and secured in addition the Saturday half-holiday. He was convinced that, had they applied for legislation, they would have failed. It was impossible to have a hard and fast law which would be applied to all classes of labor.

DR. MILNE said that ten hours' work a day, contrasted with eight hours, reduced the workman physically. He cited the experience of the District of Columbia, U. S., and said that everything appeared to favor the eight hours system.

HON. MR. ROBSON remarked upon the peculiar interest of this debate. He protested against the idea that it was only the Opposition side of the House who favored the reduction of the hours of labor. Indeed, he held that the most cogent arguments in favor of a reduction of the hours of labor had come from the Ministerial side. While, however, the greatest minds of the age were hesitating as to the manner in which to deal with this difficult matter, the leader of the Opposition came in with his ill digested resolution to settle it all at once. He endorsed the remarks of the member for Comox, and was proceeding to discuss the principle of eight hours' labor when,

HON. MR. BEAVER raised the point that the resolution did not affirm the principle as a law, but was only a recommendation that eight hours should be the limit of Government works.

HON. MR. ROBSON claimed that the debate had been a general one and went on to say that though the resolution really applied to Government works, it was only the thin end of the wedge for the introduction of legislation on the general subject. Moreover, were this the rule for Government works, it would be unjust to other people who would be compelled to fall in with it. It was all nonsense to pretend that the laboring men would put in as much work and energy in eight hours as in ten, but even were it possible, the economic question arose, would he do so? So far as the Government were concerned the question was not one with which they had to deal. As a Government they were bound to carry out the wishes of the people. But the matter was not sufficiently before the public, nor had their opinions been sufficiently expressed to enable the administration to act in the matter. He yielded to no one in his desire to see better relations between capital and labor. There was a lack of balance between them, as the member for Comox had pointed out, the fact being that laborers were entitled to a larger share of the products of labor and capital less than at present. Were it not for what he knew of the leader of the Opposition, he should be inclined to think that his resolution was a mere piece of buncombe. When the leader of the Opposition came into power the hours of the printers in the Government office were from 10 to 4, and he, by Act of Parliament, fixed them at from 8 to 6, while he made the hours of the clerks and deputies in the comfortable offices from 9 to 5 only. Was he acting in the true interests of the workingman when he kept the printers from 8 to 6, and only kept the clerks from 9 to 5? Had he been acting in the interest of the workingman he would rather have reduced the hours of the printers who worked under by no means the most healthful conditions. The next question at issue was how shall we place the relations of capital and labor on a satisfactory basis? Was it not, he asked, humiliating to witness what had taken place—an important resolution such as had been submitted and so ably discussed—with its mover confessing that he did not know what legislation had taken place on the matter. In fact he had come in with his mind all a blank, and yet had asked members who were in the dark to pass a resolution which might complicate business and other relations that, at a time like the present, should be left perfectly free. The resolution was altogether ill-considered, and, moreover, was calculated to injure the interests of the workingmen. He was inclined to believe that the majority of the House favored the reduction of the hours of labor to nine hours, but the question was how to apply the principle to all avocations? For some classes nine hours might be too short, and for others too long. He regarded the proposal as a step in the dark—a rash and ill-considered step. He thought the House would do well to vote down the amendment to the amendment, to vote down the amendment, and to vote down the original resolution also.

The members having been called in the House divided, the amendment to the amendment being rejected by a vote of 24 to 7, the following being the division: Ayes 7—Grant, McKenzie, Cotton, Milne, Beaven, Forster, Keith.

Nays 24—Semlin, Sword, Kitchen, Kellie, Horne, Smith, Brown, Baker, Robson, Davie, Vernon, Eberts, Stoddart, Booth, Hall, Nason, Pooley, Turner, Martin, Croft, Hunter, Rogers, Anderson, Fletcher.

Mr. Hall's amendment being put to vote was adopted on the following division:

Ayes 22—Grant, McKenzie, Kitchen, Cotton, Milne, Beaven, Horne, Smith, Forster, Keith, Baker, Davie, Stoddart, Booth, Hall, Nason, Turner, Martin, Hunter, Rogers, Anderson, Fletcher.

Nays 9—Semlin, Sword, Kellie, Brown, Robson, Vernon, Eberts, Pooley, Croft.

The following is the committee to whom the subject was referred, in compliance with the provisions of the amendment: Messrs. Hall, Smith, Beaven, Forster and Booth.

HON. MR. TURNER presented a return showing the sums of money received under the Election Regulation Amendment Act, and setting forth that at the last election eight candidates had forfeited their deposits.

PRIVATE BILL LEGISLATION.

HON. MR. ROBSON announced that, so far, not a single petition had been presented asking for a private bill, and stating that the House would not drag out its session to suit applicants. He stated, with reference to the inauguration of the New Westminster Southern railway, that a telegram from the secretary had been received, informing him that, owing to bad weather, and an accident the work had been delayed and the contractor had, therefore, been unable to complete it as expected. The House, therefore, would meet as usual on Friday next.

HON. MR. DAVIE stated that owing to the meeting of assizes the next Friday, he and another member of the House would be unable to be present, both of them being engaged in the principal trial.

The House adjourned at 5 o'clock.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

By MR. MARTIN—To move for a return of the correspondence and telegrams between the Attorney-General and J. Lehman, J. P., of Ashcroft, relative to the prosecution and discharge of J. Carey, for alleged embezzlement.

By MR. EBERTS—To introduce a bill to amend the B. C. University Act, 1890.

A DANGEROUS SPOT.

TO THE EDITOR: A fit subject for the attention of the Street committee can be found on Dallas Road, near the Southwest corner of the park. Some cribbing, which was erected about a year ago at a cost of over three hundred dollars, has given way, carrying with it the footpath and a portion of the road. This happened nearly a week ago, and yet it still remains a yawning trap for man and beast. Surely such a matter should be attended to at once. At the time it was built the opinion was expressed by competent authority that the work was too cheap and would not last two years. Now the city will be put to a further expense of nearly one thousand dollars, which would have been saved if the corporation had engaged men who understood their business. I think the corporation should appoint an overseer of such work; not necessarily a high priced railroad contractor, but a good practical man who can build road or crib work, so that the men who did such bad work on Superior street and Dallas road will get no more employment on public works. The public will, no doubt, be surprised to learn of the real state of affairs, but if these few lines will help to cause a change in the management of street work they will not have been written in vain.

BIG BUSINESS BLOCKS.

A Transformation Scene Will Be Enacted on Government Street During 1891.

Brief Descriptions of the "Five Sisters' Block"—Garesche Green & Co's Intentions—Other Buildings.

Messrs. Sorby & Wilson have completed the drawings and plans for the "Five Sisters' Block," to adorn the corner of Government and Fort streets, and tenders for the construction will be invited in about two weeks. The building is to be three stories in height, with Mansard roof, and will cost about $100,000. It will have a frontage on Government street of 100 feet, with 160 feet on Fort. On the ground floor there will be eight stores, four on each street. They are to have an average frontage of 20 ft., with a depth of 60 feet, and almost all have been spoken for. Lovenberg, Harris & Co. will occupy the corner, G. H. Maynard will have his old stand, and Geo. Morison, druggist, is also expected to be a tenant. The upper floors will be handsomely fitted up as offices. It is the intention to build the first story in Cheek-nut style, and the upper ones in brick with galvanized iron trimmings. The general style of the building is Ionic and the appearance is very pleasing. The plate windows, with mullions and transoms in hard wood, as light as possible, will be thoroughly modern, and give a good appearance to the store fronts. The height of the building to the cornice is the same as that of the Bank of B. C., and the mansard roof rises above, to a height of 63 feet from the sidewalk. To the top of the pavilions, which adorn each of the three corners, is 65 feet; and to the top of the flagstaffs 110 feet. The offices are arranged in suites of three each, opening from a wide and convenient hallway. Stores and offices will be heated with hot water, and lighted with electricity. An Otis electric elevator will run up the centre of the staircase, the elevator well being 80 feet in depth. Mr. J. Savannah will have the finest photographic studio in the province fitted up in the building, and reached by a special entrance. The main entrance to the upper floors will be in the centre of the Fort street front, and highly ornamental. It is expected to have the new block completed this year.

GARESCH, GREEN & CO. contemplate the erection, this year, of a fine three-story brick block on the site of their bank, at the corner of Government street and Trousseau avenue. Plans will be invited very shortly, and the new bank will probably be completed before Christmas. An arrangement has been made by Mr. Green, the owner of the property, with Messrs. W. & J. Wilson, the lessees, for the use of the ground adjoining the bank, and the new building will extend from the Nettle Place saloon to Trousseau avenue, and up that busy little thoroughfare to connect with Mr. Green's new block fronting on Broad street. The Government street frontage will be about 70 feet, and the Messrs. Wilson will occupy their present stand in the new building. The upper floors will be cut up into offices, provided with every modern convenience and business requisite. The bank will occupy the corner, and further up the avenue, will be the express office. The block will be a thoroughly first-class one, a credit to Garesche, Green & Co., and to Victoria.

JOHN WILKINSON has awarded to Messrs. Elford & Smith, the contract for building a four-story warehouse on Humboldt street, to cost about $20,000, and be proceeded with at once. It will have a frontage of 60 feet, with a depth of 100.

THE HUDSON'S BAY CO. are considering the erection of a thoroughly first-class five-story block at the corner of Government and Courtenay streets, opposite the Canada Western hotel. This big building is likely to be built this year, of stone, and upon the handsomest and most modern lines. The company have had it in contemplation for some time, and have now decided to go ahead.

ALLSOP & MASON, whose premises adjoin the H. B. Co. property, propose to convert Telegraph Block into a substantial three-story one, complete and modern in every respect. Construction may be expected to commence within the present year.

THE COLONIST building is to be doubled in size by the erection of a four-story block at Langley street, in the rear of the present building.

WILSON & DALRYMPLE have not abandoned their intention of erecting a fine block at the corner of Government and Johnson streets, and will probably move in the matter shortly.

The Future of Hawaii.
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—British Vice Consul Moore was seen this forenoon regarding a dispatch from London announcing England's desire to obtain Hawaii. England wants Hawaii, and the telegram asserted that before the death of King Kalakaua, England was preparing to secure the transfer to herself or to Canada of the political and commercial preponderance here-tofore held by Hawaii in Hawaii. It was also said that the British were anxious to get control of the pearl harbor, which the present treaty gives to America. Then, again, was stated King Kalakaua's strong preference for the United States, but that there was internal movement in Hawaii aiming toward an annexation with Great Britain. C. W. Ashford, who is virtually the head of the small military force of the kingdom, was said to be in favor of the English. Vice-Consul Moore disclaimed any knowledge of the matter, stating: "I know nothing that could cause such reports, and furthermore I believe there is absolutely no truth in them." But, suggested the reporter, it has been freely talked about that immediately after King Kalakaua's death a vessel was ordered to proceed to Honolulu and that an English ship left this port two hours after the King's death and two days before the departure of the Charleston? "True enough; such is the talk. It was also mentioned that a vessel had left Victoria, B. C., for Hawaii; but there is nothing in such talk. The last British naval vessel here was the Melpomene, which left here on Dec. 11 for Victoria, where she still lies. No other British vessel has left Victoria since then, and we have no vessel at Honolulu except the Nymph. She has been here for a long time. As far as I know, the Charleston will be the first vessel to carry the news of King Kalakaua's death."

GOSSIP FROM GERMANY.

Interesting bits of information picked up by Eugene Field.

The Empress of Germany is a daughter of the Duchess Adelheid, of Schleswig-Holstein-Augustenburg. The latter is a singularly modest and reserved personage, quite averse to display and palaver, writes Eugene Field, in the Chicago News. She is in the habit of traveling about incognito, and this is incognito invariably of the strictest kind. Recently she went to Vienna and, as the Comtesse de Wolfersdorf, hired apartments in a bourgeois part of the city. The landlord treated her as he might have treated any other elderly lady whose only visitors were her physician and a few solemn-looking friends. One day, however, this landlord was stricken nearly aguish when the Emperor of Germany (who happened to be visiting Vienna) whirled up in front of the modest mansion and inquired after the Comtesse de Wolfersdorf. After this imposing visitor had departed the landlord scuttled up to his lodger's apartments. "Do you know, Madame la Comtesse," he inquired, breathlessly, "who your caller is?" Why, it was the Emperor of Germany.

"Of course," answered the old lady, quietly; "he happens to be my son-in-law."

The sister of this estimable woman is the wife of Dr. Esmarch, an eminent surgeon who is very chummy with the Kaiser. It seems rather curious (doesn't it?) that an Emperor of Germany should have for his uncle a professor of Kiel university! The German girls are beginning to complain with considerable bitterness that American and English girls are encroaching upon their preserves. Very many Americans and English send their daughters to Germany to be educated; the pretty dears not only master the language in a short time—quite as quickly and as easily they make a conquest of the hearts of the susceptible German officer. The number of army officers in Germany with American and English wives is very great, and the fad appears to be increasing. In Dresden particularly the English and Americans are in great demand; the native madehen (be she so pretty) seems to have no chance at all. In Berlin there is a fancy for a peculiar style of feminine beauty; the Berliner admires brown eyes and hair and a dark, clear complexion; these features argue amiability, fidelity and gentle breeding, they claim. The German girls complain that the American girls are natural adepts in affairs of the heart—that they seem endowed by nature with all the arts, the audacity and the confidence of the average young widow.

THE MOTION DENIED.

His Honor Stood Up for the Rights of the Opposing Counsel.

The late Judge Blackman was very particular in requiring attorneys to observe the rules of practice. In a certain case, says the Albany Law Journal, Lawyer T. had sued out a writ of capias. Lawyer L. moved to quash the writ, and was proceeding with his argument, when the court interrupted him with the following query: The Court—"What are you reading from, sir?" Lawyer L.—"From a work on logic, your honor." The Court—"Did you give Brother T. notice that you were going to read from a work on logic?" Lawyer L.—"Of course not, your honor." The Court—"Are you aware, sir, of the rule of court which requires notice to be given of matter which would be liable to surprise the attorney on the other side?" Lawyer L.—"Yes, your honor; but the rule has no application to a matter of this kind." The Court—"I don't know, sir; I don't know. I know of nothing that would surprise Brother T. more than logic, and if you haven't given him notice that you are going to read from a work on logic, why I can't permit you to read it." Lawyer L. proceeded with his argument, and presently he was again interrupted by the court. The Court—"What are you reading from now, sir?" Lawyer L.—"Green's grammar, your honor." The Court—"Did you give Brother T. notice that you were going to read from Green's grammar?" Lawyer L. (very testily)—"Of course not, your honor." The Court—"Well, sir, I know of nothing in this world, aside from logic, that would surprise Brother T. more than grammar and if you haven't given him notice that you are going to read from Green's grammar, why I can't permit you to read it, and I shall have to deny your motion with costs."

CAREFUL CREDITORS.

How His Tailor Knew That He Had Been In Europe.

"Perhaps," said a business man to a New York Tribune reporter, "there are a good many of us who believe that all the world has absolute confidence in our honesty; but there are so many schemes creditors have for keeping an eye on debtors that the honest men are watched as carefully as the dishonest ones. When I went to Europe last summer I owed my tailor two or three hundred dollars, I suppose."

"When I returned I went around to him to order my fall clothes."

"How do you do, Mr. L.—?" said he.

"How did you enjoy your trip to Europe?"

"Now I had gone away quietly and had returned no less quietly. Not a dozen of my friends knew when I started or when I got back."

"Europe!" I said. "What do you mean?" and I looked at him banteringly.

"Why," said he, "I mean your last trip. I see that you returned only last week."

"Where did you see it?" I asked.

"He stopped for a moment and looked embarrassed."

"Come, now," I said, "how did you know I had gone to Europe or that I had returned?"

"To tell you the truth, Mr. L.—," he answered, "we know about every movement of those who owe us money. We receive weekly reports from an agency, and you will find that many other business houses know as much about their customers."

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Celebrate the 3th Anniversary of Far West Lodge, No. 1.

Last night a social dance was held in Philharmonic Hall under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, in commemoration of the 3th anniversary of the order in this province. About 60 couples were present, and at an intermission the following address, accompanied by a gold-headed cane, was presented to the most esteemed member of the lodge—

Sir Knight, Captain H. F. W. Behnen, Past Chancellor and Representative to the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the World.

KNIGHTLY SIR AND BROTHER:—In days of old, when knights were bold deeds of valor prove, the key-stone of wealth, honor and position. In modern times true knights were known and respected for deeds of friendship, clarity and benevolence. These traits have been exemplified by one who is known and honored by all members of our order, through our fair province, and in recognition of his many good deeds, Far West Lodge, No. 1, Knights of Pythias, present this token of their esteem.

Sir Knight Captain H. W. P. Behnen is known at the fireside of every Pythian family in British Columbia, and his good counsel, has aided in promoting the cause of honor and purity in this, the land of his adoption. He has seen the Order marching on until its rank and file number in hundreds of thousands. He represented the Banner Lodge of the province at the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the World, and was one of the Charter members of the first Lodge of Knights of Pythias, which was organized in Victoria eight years ago.

In presenting the accompanying mark of appreciation and esteem, your brother Knights trust you will not look to the intrinsic value of the same as a gauge of our feelings towards you, but as a memento of the sincerest wishes for your welfare and prosperity. We would add in conclusion that the name of Sir Knight Captain Behnen will always be indelibly allied with Far West Lodge, No. 1, Knights of Pythias.

Signed, M. J. CONLIN,
J. M. HUGHES,
T. DEASEY.

Committee of management on behalf of the Lodge.
